

Volume 76: Chapter 44: Figure 5. Relationship between distributions of Jurassic, Cretaceous, and Cenozoic microfossil assemblages or events and major geologic, climatic, and oceanographic events in the North American Basin, western North Atlantic Ocean.

Ammonites		A. Hallam (1975) G. E. Westermann (personal communication, 1981)
Nannofossils	Jurassic	P. Roth et al. (this volume) D. Watkins (personal communication, 1982)
	Early Cretaceous	P. Roth (1978 and personal communication, 1982)
	Late Cretaceous	P. Doeven et al. (1982) P. Doeven (in press)
Microfacies		Remane (1978 and this volume)
Radiolarians		P. Baumgartner (personal communication, 1982)
Aptychi		Renz (this volume)
Palynomorphs	Early-Middle Jurassic	Bujak and Williams (1976)
	Middle-Late Jurassic	Habib and Drugg (this volume)
	Early Cretaceous	Habib and Drugg (this volume) Habib and Knapp (1982)
Foraminifers	Early Jurassic	Exton and Gradstein (in press) Copestate and Johnson (1981)
	Middle-Late Jurassic	Gradstein (1977 and this volume) Van Hinte (1976a, b)
	Cretaceous	M. Moullade (1966 and personal communication, Site 534 chapter, this volume) Gradstein (1978) Druschitz and Gorbatchik (1979) Jaffrezo (1980)
Geomagnetic reversals		Lowrie et al. (1980) Channel et al. (in press) J. Ogg (this vol.) and personal communication, 1982
Geochronology		This scale Van Hinte (1976a, b) Webb (1981)
Ocean lithology		Jansa et al. (1979) Sheridan, Gradstein et al. (this volume)
Geologic and seismic events		R. E. Sheridan (personal communication) Sheridan, Gradstein et al. (this volume)
